

Master Introduction Week 2025

Become one of this year's Master Instructors!

Are you a Master student at Aarhus BSS? Or have you graduated, and do you miss the study environment? Do you want to expand your network and your coordination skills?

Studenterlauget is currently looking for current or former Master students to help coordinate the Master Introduction Week 2025 and give the new Master students the greatest start at Aarhus BSS. In addition to being a part of the Master Introduction Week, you will socialise with all of the other Master Instructors at our social events.

Why should you become a Master Instructor?

As a Master Instructor you will be co-responsible for introducing the new Master students to their respective study programmes. You will pass on your own experiences while improving your coordination skills and public speaking abilities. You will help the new students get socially integrated and improve your own social network across different semesters and study programmes. And not least, you will get a summer filled with hygge and social events with your fellow Master Instructors! It is the perfect way to get the last and best out of your study time! In addition, this will be the last summer at this campus, so it's another great opportunity to be a part of the LAST introduction week at Fuglesangs allé and klubben.

If you want to share this wonderful experience with your friends, it's possible to apply together as a group (we promise you will get on the same team).

What do we expect?

You do not need experience – you will get that along the way. The only requirements we have for you are

- You can communicate effectively in English.
- You are outgoing, helpful and have a sense of organising.
- You are ready to participate in the biggest Master Introduction Week.

We expect that you are able to participate during the Master Introduction Day (June 21st), Master Days (August 21st-22nd), and the Introduction Week (August 28th-August 29th).

Send your application
